THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY MORNING, JANUARY 9, 1891.

VOL. XXII.

THE SILVER BILL WILL BE PUT TO A VOTE ON WEDNESDAY

AT THE SUGGESTION OF MR. INGALLS

/hen Mr. Hoar Will Make Another Attempt to Put Life into His Elections Bill.

WASHINGTON, January 8 .- [Special.]-The silver bill is to be voted upon and passed by the senate on Wednesday next. Such an agreement was reached by the Senator Ingalls make a proposition for the vote on next Wednesday. After a long de-bate, in which the democrats asked for full debate, while the republicans wanted to vote this week, Senator Ingalls's proposition was accepted by both sides without objection.

When Mr. Stewart asked unanimous consent that a vote should be taken on the bill and amendments at 4 o'clock Saturday, Mr. Gorman expressed his surprise at the proposition. The amendment offered to the bill by the senator from Nevada (Mr. Stewart), has been described by the senator from Ohio (Mr. Sherman), as one of the most revolutionary measures introduced in congress, and that senator had said that if the amendment was agreed to, the whole financial structure of the country would probably be overturned. If the senator from Ohio was correct in that matter, the senators ought to have time to ascertain what was necessary to be done. On the other hand the senator from Nevada (Mr. Stewart), had stated in the most emphatic way that the recom-mendations of the senator from Ohio to the committee on finance were more destructive to the interests of the people than any proposition ever presented. If either of these senators were right-he trusted they were both wrong—the senate ought to have time to weigh and consider the matter. There ought to be some time to deliberate. There ought to be a disposition on both sides of the chamber to me together and consider the matter calmly and carefully, without regard to party. Mr. Stewart realized the importance of Mr. Gorman's suggestions, but thought that as the subject had been much discussed, the senate ought to fix a time for taking the vote.

WILL VOTE NEXT WEDNESDAY.

Ta long discussion, and while Mr. Steward as addressing the senate, Mr. Hale interrupted him, saying that he had just come into the chamber, and inquiring of him as to what had become of his proposition. He was informed that the matter was still undisposed of.

Mr. Ingalls—I will make an effort in that Mr. Stewart-Very well; I will yield the

■Mr. Ingalls-I realize fully and to the utmost the force of the suggestions of the senator from Maryland, that on a subject of the gavity and import-unce of this measure, the action should not be precipitate or improvident, and that he debate should be deliberate and suficiently protracted to permit all aspects of the peasure to be considered. I will venture to sk unanimous consent that general debate on he hill shall close with adjournment on fuesday next, and that on Wednesday lebate shall be resumed on the bill and amendments under the ten-minute rule, the Snal vote to be taken on the passage of the bill before adjournment on Wednesday. Mr. Gorman recognized Mr. Ingalls's propo-sition as perfectly fair and as allowing ample time for a full and fair consideration of the

Mr. Morgan suggested some slight modifications, but, yielding to the prompting of sena-tors in his neighborhood, he withdrew all ob-

The presiding officer (Mr. Faulkner) put the question, and it was agreed to without dissent on either side. THE FREE COINAGE AMENDMENT.

It is certain that the free coinage amend ment offered by Senator Stewart adopted. The democrats believe it will likewise go through the house. Thus the chances are the president will be forced to sign or veto the bill. If he signs it, he alienates the east. If he vetoes it, he alienates the west. This is the reason he is so anxious to have Reed prevent a vote in the house. But Reed will not do it, and the chances are Harrison will be compelled to antagonize one or the other faction of his party, and thus lose all chances of a renomi-

MR. HOAR'S LAST CHANCE. As soon as the silver bill is out of the way Hoar intends making another motion to bring the force bill before the senate. He has alread received a pledge from Vice President Mortor to recognize him to make this mo-tion immediately after the silver bill vote is announced on Wednesday. Hoar will then move that the senate proceed to the consideration of the elections bill. The ocrat and republican opponents of the bill will then antagonize this motion with a motion to take up some other bill of general interes and importance. On this vote it is believed enough republicans will vote with the demo crats to prevent the consideration of the force bill. If that be the case, then Hoar will give up the fight. He says he desires but one mor opportunity. If the republicans then divide, he says it will mean the death of the party.

THE FOREIGN AFFAIRS BILL. The house foreign affairs committee today instructed the chairman, Representative Hitt, of Illinois, to report the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill. The bill carries an aggregate appropriation of $1,665,925, and is $39,800 less than the appropriation for the current year. No new consulates are provided for in the bill, and no salaries of min isters or consuls are increased. Sixteen consulates, which have heretofore been paid in fees, were made salaried offices. The aggre gate fees of these sixteen consulates during the past year were $41,370, and the salarie provided for aggregate $34,000.

THE SHIPPING SUBSIDY BILL. The shipping subsidy bill will not reach vote for some days yet. Nearly all the demo-crats are fighting it vigorously, while many republicans are becoming frightened on acby the lobby. The corridors of the capitol are crowded with these lobbyists, who are watching every step of the hill and keeping tab on the Today the bill seems to be losing strength. Members who three days ago prom ised to vote for it, have distrusted it on account of the rumors that there will be an investigation if the bill passes, and that considerable rottenness will be uncovered. When the Pacific mail subsidy bill passed in 1872, there was an investigation immediately afterwards, was an investigation immediately afterwards which brought out the fact that nearly $1, 000,000 was spent by the lobby that worked it One congressman from Penngot $300,000 of it. The odor that surrounds many of the ates of the present bill is causing so desertions that the chances are it will be defeated if the vote is postponed until next week. This bill provides for subsidies all for American built vessels engaged in foreign trade, whether sailors or steamers, and would cost the government hundreds of millions of dollars. Indeed in its present shape the bill is little less than a mammoth steal. Owing to the debate upon the subsidy bill, Mr. Fithian, of Illinois, opposed the measure, and inveighed against the system of subsidies. He then proceeded to argue in favor of free ship policy and the policy of abolishing restrictive navigation laws, as the best means of restoring the American flag to its proper place upon the sea. England had adopted that policy and the result was that she now commanded 52 per cent of the tonnage of the world.

had adopted that policy and the result was that she now commanded 52 per cent of the tonnage of the world.

Mr. Wheeler, of Michigan, spoke briefly in favor of the bill.

Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, said that it would have been fortunate if this question could have been considered from the standpoint of American citizenship and American business, wisdom and integrity. It was unfortunate for a question of this character that it should be launched upon the house by an assault upon one of the great political parties of the country.

Mr. Grosvenor said that the opposition to it had been based on the ground that it was a republican measure. Why should that be so? It was the purpose of a bill like this to find a market for the available of the said and the said of the said o market for the products of American labor, which had been produced under the benign influence of a protective tariff, so this bill was a proper corollary of the McKinley tariff bill. One built up American produce; the other furnished the means of transporting it to foreign markets.

Pending the conclusion of Mr. Grosvenor's remarks, the committee arcse, and the house adjourned. COLONEL LESTER'S BILL.

Colonel Lester's bill for enlarging the Savannah public building passed the senate today. It had already passed thehouse. The appropriation is $400,000. An incres of $50,000 was made in the Charleston public building item. Judge Crisp went over to Baltimore this afternoon, to make a speech at the annual banquet of one of the democratic clubs of that E. W. B.

MR. PARNELL DENIES CERTAIN STATEMENTS. DUBLIN. January 8 .- The Freeman's Journal says that Parnell denies the statement pub lished to the effect that Parnell has agreed not to canvass Ireland until the general election that he has agreed to transfer the funds to D'Brien in order that the latter may pay the Tipperary tenants; that O'Brien has agreed to secure McCarthy's deposition, and that O'Brien will lead the reunited Irish party. The Journal declares that the conference closed hopeful of a message satisfactory to the Irish party at home and abroad; hopeful that the conference would not be fruitless, and hopeful that it would have a great, practical and salutary influence towards the renewal of the union of the irresistible Irish party.

WHAT MR. O'BRIEN SAYS. BOULOGNE-SUR-MER, January 8 .- McCarthy and Sexton are expected to arrive tomorrow afternoon. O'Brien requests that a denial be given to the reports that have been circulated to the effect that Parnell has agreed to retire, and that he (O'Brien) is to replace McCarth as leader of the Irish party.

The committee, after much discussion, passed a resolution releasing from obligation such subscribers to the capital stock obligation such subscribers to the capital stock of the concern as might wish to withdraw. The Pittsburg window-glass makers declare that the combination will not be completed this year at least, and perhaps not at all. The entire difficulty has been brought about by inancial stringency.

THEY FORM A COMBINATION.

PITTSBURG, January 8.—It is learned on good authority that nineteen of the leading table glassware manufacturers of Pennsyltable glassware manufacturers of Pennsylvania and West Virginia have formed a combine with the object of avoiding a waste of money during dull seasons. If, at any time, business should be dull at one of the factories that plant will close down and transfer its orders to the other factories. Should general dullness ensue the combine will operate as many factories as are necessary to fill the demand. Each factory will be assessed for general expenses and the profits will be divided in proportion to the size of the factories. No outside working capital will be in the deal. This arrangement, it is expected, will bring about uniform prices, saving on molds and saving by shutting down by establishments that do not have enough work to keep all of it going. An executive beard will keep all of it going. An executive beard will manage the concern. The number of hands employed in nineteen factories is over 8 000 and the total weekly pay roll is $200,000.

This friend, Lagare, are both sale a statement of afternoon Gonzales published a statement of the affair, in which he handled Tillman very that the the affair, in which he handled Tillman very severely. Rumor says that the blackball story is not the real cause of the affair, but that some severe remarks of Gonzales's regarding Governor Tillman and his nephew in a report of a political meeting, during the late campaign, is at the botton of the matter. Reports sent out from Augusta state that Tillman intends to forward a written challenge, but, as yet, none has reached Gonzales, and, even if it does and is accepted, there can be no possibility of a fight, as the publicity given the affair destroys any possibility of a meeting.

Another Brave Officer Falls by the Treachery of the Red Devils-Red Cloud and His Wife Come In-

Boise City, Ida., January 8 .- Advices received from Pocatello, Ida., state that the Indians on Fort Hall reservation have been dancing and 200 in war paint have taken to the mountains, causing great excitement. Governor Wiley has been asked to order militia to Pocatello and probably a company of United States cavalry, at Boise barracks, will be sent there. The Indians on the reservation number 1,200 or 1,500, more than half of whom are Bannocks, who caused the prolonged war twelve years ago.

The people of Pocatello have almost no arms, and the towns of Blackfoot and Eagle Rock are on the border of the reserve. The Indians who took to the mountains are working eastward toward Wyoming. The belief is expressed that if the Indians at Pocatello go on the warpath they will be joined by tribes on the Lemhi reservation, who number 500, embracing 125 able-bodied bucks.

A BATTLE YESTERDAY.

"There is the report of heavy firing informer the hestile camp that may be between the two elements of the Indian camp."
Lieutenant Casey was a brother of General Thomas L. Casey, chief of the engineers of the army, and was about forty years of age. He had been in command of a treop of Cheyenne scouts for about a year and was working earn-estly in the interest of the Indians themselves. He had the reputation in the army of possess-ing an unusually accurate knowledge of the Indian character.

D., January 8.—Yankto Charley, one of Buffalo Bill's men, now employed as a scout here, brings the particulars of the murder of Lieutenant Casey, of the Twenty-second infantry, of General Brooke's Casey had started out to visit the hostiles to induce the chiefs to come in to a talk with General Brooke.

He passed a small band of Ogallalas, who were butchering, and proceeded further, followed, however, by two of the Indians, who appeared to be friendly. He was shortly afterward met by Pete Richards, son-in-law of Red Cloud, who had been sent by the latter to warn him not to approach nearer the hostiles, because it was dangerous.

because it was dangerous.

Casey said he would ride to the top of a little knoll, where he could get a view of the hostile camp. Richards dissuaded him and he and Casey turned around and departed. Just then Richards heard a shot and turning back saw Casey fall from his horse, the bullet passing through the latter's head. The shot was fired by the younger of the two Ogalialias who had followed Casey. Richards would have shot the murderer, but his cartridges did

CELEBRATED BY THE YOUNG DEM-OCRATS OF PHILADELPHIA.

EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND SPEAKS

On the Principles of True Democracy-A of Political Integrity

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., January 8. Special. One of the most notable gatherings ever held Philadelphia was that which assemoled around the banquet board of the Young Men's Democratic Association. Men who had grown old in democratic faith were there to reoice over their victory over the corrupt forces of republicanism.

Prominent among the guests was Ex-President Grover Cleveland. When the toast: The principles of true democracy: They are en-during because they are right, and invincible be-cause they are just,

Was proposed, the ex-president was called upon to reply. Awaiting a cessation of the ap-plause which greeted his name he alluded to the meaning of the term: "True Democracy? I believe them to mean," he said, "a sober conviction or conclusion touching political topics, which formulated into a political belief or creed, inspire a patriotic performance of the duties of citizenship. I am satisfied that the principles of this belief or creed are such as inderlie our free institutions, and that they may be urged upon our fellow countrymen, because in their purity and integrity they accord with the attachment of our people for their government and their country. A creed based upon such principles is by no means discredited because illusions and perversions temporarily prevent their popular acceptance. their popular acceptance any more than it can be irretrievably shipwrecked by mistakes made in its name or by its prostitution to ignoble purposes. When illusions are dispelled, when misconceptions are rectified and when those purposes. When illusions are dispelled, when misconceptions are rectified and when those who guide are consecrated to truth and duty, the ark of the people's safety will still be discerned in the keeping of those who hold fast to the principles of true democracy." Mr. Cleveland then continued:

These principles are not uncertain nor doubtful. The file acrious founder of our party has plainly announced them. They have been re-asserted and followed by a long line of great political leaders, and they are quite familiar. They comprise: Equal and exact justice to all men; peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations—entangling alliance with none; the support of the state governments in all their rights; the preservation of the general government in its whole constitutional vigor; a jealous care of the right of election by the people; absolute acquiescence in the decisions of the majority; the supremacy of the civil over the military anthority; economy in public expenses; the homest payment of our debts and sacred preservation of the public faith; the encouragement of agriculture, and commerce as its handmaid, and freedom of religion, freedom of the press and freedom of the person.

The great president and intrepid democratic leader whom we especially honor tonight, who never relaxed his strict adherence to the democratic faith nor altered in his defense of the rights of the people against all comers, found his inspiration and guidance in these principles. On entering upon the presidency he declared his loyalty to them; in his long and useful incumbency of that great office he gloriously illustrated their value and sufficiency; and his obedience to the doctrines of true democracy at all times during his public career, permitted him on his retriement to find satisfaction in the declaration: "At the moment when I aurrender in Jake public trust, I leave this great people prosperous and happy and in the full enjoyment of fiberty and peace, and honored and respected by every nation of the world."

Parties have come and parties have gone, but there has never been a time from Jefferson's day to theipresent hour, when our party did not exist, active and aggressive and prepared for heroic condict. Not all who have followed the banner have been able by a long train of close reasoning to demonstrate, as an abstraction, why democratic principles are best suited to their wants and the country's good; but they have known and felt that as their government was established for the people, the principles and the men nearest to the people and standing for them, could be the safest trusted. Jackson has been in their eyes the inpeople and standing for them, could be the safest trusted. Jackson has been in their eyes the incarnation of the things which Jefferson declared. If they did not understand all that Jefferson wrote, they saw and knew what Jackson did. Those who insisted upon voting for Jackson after his death felt sure that whether their candidate was alive or dead they were voting the ticket of true-democracy. The devoted political adherent of Jackson, who after his death, became involved in a dispute as to whether his hero had gone to heaven or not was prompted by democratic instinct when he disposed of the question by declaring, "I tell you, sir, that if Andrew Jackson has made up his mind to go to heaven you may-depend upon it he's there." The single democratic voter in more than one town, who year after year deposited his single democratic ballot undismayed by the number of his misquided opponents, thus discharging his political duty with the utmost pride and satisfaction in his Jacksonian democracy.

undisinayed by the number of his misguided opponents, thus discharging his political duty with the utmost pride and satisfaction in his Jacksonian democracy.

Democratic steadfastness and enthusiasm and the satisfaction arising from our party history and traditions, certainly ought not to be discouraged. But it is hardly safe for us because we profess the true faith, and can boast of distinguished political ancestry, to rely upon these things as guarantees of our present usefulness as a party organization, or to regard their glorification as sarely making the way casy to the accomplishment of our political mission.

The democratic party, by an intelligent study of present conditions, must be prepared to meet all the wants of the people as they arise, and to furnish a remedy for every threatening evil. We may well be proud of our party membership; but we cannot escape the duty which such membership imposes upon us, to urge constantly upon our fellow citizens of this day and generation, the sufficiency of the principles of true democracy for the protection of their rights and the promotion of their welfare and happiness, in all their present diverse conditions and surroundings.

There should of course be no suggestion that a departure from the time homored principles of our party is necessary to the attainment of these objects. On the contrary we should constantly congratulate ourselves that our party creed is broad enough to meet any emergency that can arise in the life of a free nation.

Thus when we see the functions of government used to enrich a favored few at the expense of the many, and see also its inevitable result in the plunching privation of the poor and the profuse extravagance of the rich; and when we see in operation an unjust tariff which banishes from many, humble homes the comforts of life in order that in the places of wealth, luxury may more abound, we turn to our creed and find that it enjoins "equal and exact justice to ali men." Then if we are well grounded in our political faith, we will n equality and injustice, as we prepare for the encounter with wrong, armed with the weapons of the democracy.

When we see our farmers in distress, and know that they are not paying the penalty of slothfulness and mismanagement; when we see their long hours of toil so poorly requited that the money-lender eats out their substance, while for everything they need they pay a tribute to the favorites of governmental care, we know that all this is far removed from the "encouragement of agriculture" which our creed commands. We will not violate our political duty by forgetting how well entitled our farmers are to our best efforts for their restoration to the independence of a former time and to the rewards of better days.

When we see the extravagance of public expenditure fast reaching the point of reckless waste, and the undeserved distribution of public money debauching its recipients, and by permicious example threatening the destruction of the love of frugality among our people, we will remember that "economy in the public expense" is an important article in the true democratic faith.

When we see our political adversaries bent upon the passage of a federal law, with the scarcely denied purpose of perpetrating partian supremer, which invades the states with election machinery designed to promote federal interference with the rights of the people in the localities concerned, discrediting their honesty and fairness, and justly arousing their jealousy of centralized power, we will stubbornly resist such a dangerous and revolutionary scheme, in obedience to our pledge for "the support of the state governments in all their rights."

sound and safe theory that the people should support the government for the sake of the benefits resulting to all, has bred a sentiment manifesting itself with astounding boldness, that the government may be enlisted in the furtherance and advantage of private interest, through their willing agents in public place. Such an abandonment of the idea of patrictic political action on the part of these interests, has naturally led to an estimate of the people's franchise so degrading that it has been openly and palpably debauched for the promotion of selfish schemes. Money is invested in the purchase of votes with the deliberate calculation that it will yield a profitable return in results advantageous to the investor. Another crime akin to this in motive and design is the intimidation by employers of the voters dependent upon them for work and bread.

Nothing could be more hateful to true and genuine democracy than such offenses against our free institutions. In several of the states the honest sentiment of the party has asserted itself, in the support of every plan proposed for the rectilication of this terrible wrong. To fail in such support would be to violate that principle in the creed of true democracy which commands "a fealous care of the right of election by the people," for certainly no one can claim that suffrages purchased or cast under the stress of threat and intimidation, represent the right of election by the people,"

Since a free and unpolluted ballot must be conceded as absolutely essential to the maintenance of our free institutions, I may, perhaps, be permitted to express the hope that the state of Pennsylvania will not long remain behind her sister states in adopting an effective plan to protect her people's suffrage. In any event the democracy of the state can find no justification in party principle, nor in party traditions, nor in a just apprehension of democratic duty, for a failure earnestly to support and advocate ballot reform. I have thus far attempted to state some of the principles of true democracy, and their application to present conditions. Their enduring character and their constant influence upon those who profess our faith have also been suggested. If I were now asked why they have so endured and why they have been invincible, I should reply in the words of the sentiment to which I respond: "They are enduring because they are right, and invincible because they are just."

I believe that among our people the ideas which endure and which inspire warm attachment and devotion, are those having some elements which appeal to the moral time. There is sometimes a discouraging distance between what our fellow-countrymen believe and what they do in such a case, but their action in accordance with their belief may always be confidently expected in good time. A government for the people and by the people is everlastingly right. As surely as this is true so surely is it true that party principles which advocate the absolute equality of American manhood, and an equal participation by all the people in the management of their government, and in the benefit and protection which it affords, are also right. Here is common ground where the most impulsive and instinctive Americanism. It is right that the entitless extent consistent with his finembership in a civilized community. It is right that the influence of the government should be known in every humble home as the guardian of frugal counfort and content, and a deiens there will soon stand a disciple of true democracy, elected by voters who would have the right and not the wrong when their consciences were touched. Though there have existed here conditions and influences not altogether favorable to an unselfish apprehension of the moral attributes of political doctrine, I believe that if these features of the principles of true democracy are persistently advocated, the time will speedily come when, as in a day, the patriotic hearts of the people of your great commonwealth will be stirred to the support of our cause.

It remains to say that in the midst of our rejoicing and in time of party hope and expectation, we should remember that the way of right and justice should be followed as a matter of duty and regardless of immediate success. Above all things let us not for a moment forget that grave responsibilities await the party which the people trust; and let us look for guidance to the principles of true democracy which "are enduring because they are right, and invincible because they are just."

Mrs. Cleveland came over yesterday at the invitation of the managers of the eleventh annual charity ball, and last night she was at the head of the procession which opened the ball, having for her escort William P. PRICE FIVE CENTS. FIGHTING THEIR WAY

TO SERVE A WRIT UPON THE SPEAKER.

EXCITING TIMES OUT IN NEBRASKA

On the Organization of the Legislature-The National Guard in Charge of the Cap-itol-From Other States.

LINCOLN, Neb., January 8 .- All the doors of the representative hall were guarded this morning, and none but members of the legislature, state officers and persons having business inside, were admitted. All the members were on hand promptly, although they found great difficulty in pushing their way through the crowds that filled the corridors and besieged the capitol at all points. The alliance members had taken possession of the house at 5 o'clock in the morning. They placed a speaker in the chair, and put a cordon of assistant sergeant-at-arms around him. When Lieutenant Governor Micklejohn appeared he was not allowed to take his seat, but stood in front of the speaker, who was ready to call the joint session to order for the arrest of Lieutenant Governor Micklejohn on the charge of misconduct in office and a breach of the peace. The lieutenant governor defied the officers and was not taken into custody.

THE MILITARY CALLED OUT. Both sides had a force of sergeant-at-arms within call, and any attempt on either side to proceed with a canvass of the vote would have precipitated a row. To avoid this a committee from each party was sent with a statement of the case to the supreme court.

Governor Thayer ordered out a company of national guards and at 11 o'clock they stacked arms in the corridors of the capitol.

Crowds are arriving on every train to attend the inauguration of Governor-elect Boyd and considerable impatience is shown over the delay in counting the votes.

At 12:15 o'clock p. m. the supreme court issued a writ of mandamus, directing the speaker of the house to canvass the returns.

THE WRIT WAS SERVED.

The sheriff of Lancaster county, with deputhe snerm of Lancaster county, with deputies and a baliff of the supreme court, burst in the doors of the house and fought their way through the crowd of alliancemen guarding the entrance. The writ was served on the greeker. speaker.

A motion to take a recess until 3 o'clock was declared carried by the lieutenant governor and the democrats and republicans filed out of

CONNECTICUT LEGISLATURE.

HARTFORD, Conn., January S.—The house assembled shortly after 10 o'clock. The joint resolutions passed late yesterday by the senate were received by the house. They declare each of the democratic state officers elected. Representative Green, of Norwich (republican), offered a resolution creating a special committee of the house on a canvass of state officers, referring the returns to them and directing them to investigate the allegations of inaccuracies of the count, which are cited in the preamble to his resolution. The resolution was passed.

Another resolution for a recess to January 20th at 10 o'clock, was also passed at 2 o'clock p. m., by a vote of 129 to 106, and the house will not meet again until that date.

The house committee of inquiry into the vote for state officers will begin its session at 4 o'clock p. m. today. The senate has made no effort to transact business today.

CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY.

Boise City, Id., January 8.—There are rumors afloat here of a startling move to be made in connection with the recent senatorial election. Section 143 of the Idaho revised statute declares it felony for members of the legislature to vote on or promise to support any question or matter in return for the support of another member on any question or matter upon which they may be called upon to pass officially. It is said that warrants will be sworn out under the above section for the arrest of several members of the legislature who were connected with the alleged Shoup-Dubois-McConnell combine, charging them with felonious conspiracy against the legislature who were connected with the alleged Shoup-Dubois-McConnell combine, charging them with felonious conspiracy against the legislature.

STANFORD RENOMINATED.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., January 8.—Republican members of both branches of the legislature held a caucus last night and unanimously renominated Leland Stanford for United States senator. The democrats decided to give their complimentary vote to Stephen M. White.

TUTTLE SWORN IN.

CONCORD, N. H., January 8.—Hiram A. Tuttle was sworn in as governor this morning with the usual ceremonies. He then delivered his message. Both branches of the legislature adjourned as soon as the governor had finished.

EXIT LUCE, ENTER WINANS.

LANSING, Mich., January 8.—The imanguration ceremonies took place this morning before the legislature in joint session at 11 o'clock a. m. After the customary observances, retiring Governor Luce delivered his message. At the close of Governor Luce's address Governor Winans, the incoming governor, read his address.

THE HLINOIS LEGISLATURE. THE ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., January S.—Both houses of the state legislatuse met again today. Governor Fifer's message was read and reported to the proper committee. Arrangements were also made for a joint session this afternoon to canvass the vote cast at the last state election.

In the senate, bills for the adoption of the Australian ballot law and for a uniform system of school text books was presented and re-

In the house a joint resolution was adopted providing for separate ballots in both houses for United States senator on January 28th, and for a joint ballot on the day following. Drawing for seats then took place, and three Farmers' Mutual Benevolent Association members took seats on the republican side of the house to the great delight of the members of that party.

MINNESOTA'S LEGISLATURE ORGANIZES.

ST. PAUL, Minn., January 8.—The house met this morning, cast three ballots for speaker and took a recess till 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. The vote was unchanged, the eighth ballot resulting: Searle, 41; Stivers, 41; Champlin, 32. The house managed to elect as speaker at the afternoon session. Immediately after the secretary called the house to order, H. C. Stiles, democratic candidate, got the floor and withdrew in the interest of peace in favor of E. T. Champlin, alliance candidate. A ballot was then taken, resulting in 72 votes for Champlin to 41 for Searl. Champlin was at once called to the chair and read a brief speech, returning thanks for the honor conferred and saying that the people expect much from this legislature, and with proper energy much can be done. He expected business methods to be employed to the advantage of the state, and closing, said, 'Let us join hands in a common union and work for the commonwealth.' Without choosing any other officer the house then adjourned till tomorrow.

GOVERNOR FOWLE'S MESSAGE. Recommendations to Which North Caro

RALEIGH, N. C., January 8.—[Special.]—
Sovernor Fowle's message was read in the leg-Governor Fowle's message was read in the legislature today. It is of great length and covers two years. The principal features are as follows: The state debt is only $5,939,000; $2,-720,000 in 6 per cent bonds, the remainder in 4 per cents. On 6's the state has no interest to pay, as it is paid for the lease of the North Carolina railway, in which the commonwealth holds $3,000,000 of stock. So the debt is practically a state of the control of the contr

The protection of oysters is given special consideration. Twenty-five thousand dollars are asked for the display of North Carolina's resources at the Chicago exposition.

The taxable property in the state is valued at $227,000,000, an increase of $10,000,000 in two years. There is an urgent necessity for the equalization of taxation, and county and state boards are necessary to secure this. The law in regard to the public schools needs such amendment as to require the county commissioners to set apart the amounts necessary for the schools before making other appropriations. The university buildings are old, and to a great degree unserviceable, and generous nid should be given, after a special committee has made an inspection. Training nid should be given, after a special committee has made an inspection. Training schools for white teachers, particularly for females, are asked for, as absolutely necessary. The law regarding fertilizers should be so amended as to impose a tax of 25 cents per ton. That institution is self-supporting, but, in case there is a falling off of demand or convicts on railway work, factories for tobacco or jute bagging should be established in the prison, or the convicts put on farms. A reformatory for the youthful criminals is necessary. The courts of over and terminer should be re-established, and solicitors paid salaries. The pension tax raised $87,000 last year, which has been raid out the 4000 nepsigners. which has been paid out to 4,000 pensioners Grants were issu ed for 154,000 acres of public lands. JERRY SIMPSON'S PHILOSOPHY.

He Says Educated Men Are Behind the Times-Not a Senatorial Candidate.

TOPEKA, Kan., January 8.—Hon. Jerry Simpson, the newly elected sockless congressman from the seventh district, is in the city. He is in fine spirits, and says the alliance will defeat Ingalls easily. He said he was not a candidate for the senate, but that the alliance ould find one without any trouble. He said:

"No, I am not a candidate, and never have been. We consider that the work of the enemy. By the enemy I mean the republican party. They think we fellows are all ambitious, and that they can make something out of our ambition. It is true a man must out of our ambition. It is true a man must have some ambition or he is not worth any-thing, and our fellows are not ambitious for offices. We believe that the office should seek the man, not the man the office. There have been several of our folks mentioned have been several of our folks mentioned for the office—some highly educated, others hard workers from the ranks of the people. As far as education is concerned, we have had too many of that kind of officeholders. The people of today don't want to be governed by the people of yesterday. Washington and Jefferson were great men, because they solved the questions of their times. What we want now is men in office who understand the condition and needs of the people and are ready and able to solve them." and able to solve the

Columbus, Ga., January 8.—[Special.]—A

umber of prominent cotton mill Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama have been in conference the past two days, but have managed to keep the proceedings

Your correspondent learned tonight that the conference was to consider a proposition to form a combination of all the mills in the south manufacturing plaids. The combine proposes to raise the price of plaids from '10 to 20 per cent. 'It is claimed that all the plaid mills in the south have been losing money for several years, and that plaids are now being sold for less than actual cost of production, and that it is essential in order to avoid embarrassment, that prices be advanced and the mills combine for mutua protection.

It is reported that all the southern mills, except the Eagle and Phenix, of this city except the Eagle and Phenix, of this city, whose president, the venerable W. H. Young, is opposed to the combination. He opposes the combination on the ground that the price should be regulated by the law of supply and demand. Strong efforts are being made to induce President Young to withdraw from his position, but so far without avail.

The conference adjourned late tonight, and the millmen leave for their homes tomorrow. It is settled that the other mills will advance the price of plaids, whether the Eagle & Phenix come into the combination or not.

THE SMELL OF GAS

Columbus. COLUMBUS, Ga., January 8.—[Special.]—Lee Betz, bookkeeper of the Chattahoochee National bank, had a narrow escape from a terrible death

He detected the smell of gas apparently eminating from the vault at the rear of the bank. He struck a match and opened the door with the intention of lighting the jet, when a terrible ex-plosion occurred, knocking out a portion of the brick wall and celling.

Mr. Betz was hurled to the floor of the vault, and was terribly burned about the hands and face Physicians were summoned and pronounced his injuries very serious, and he will be confined to his home some time. It is supposed there was a leak in the pipe and the vanit filled with gas during the night. A number of papers and documents were scorched, but other damage was trifling.

The Great Scotch Strike.

GLASGOW, January 8.—Another day in the nistory of the great Scotch railroad strike has opened without any signs of definite improvement in the situation being shown. The railroad directors have repeatedly announced that the strike was practically over; that the strikers were beaten, and that the usual traffic upon all lines had been resumed.

These statements were believed at first, but now it seems that the statements of the railroad officials were not correct. In this neighborhood there are still about 6,000 men out on strike, and in spite of the statements made by the companies' representatives, freight traffic is not being improved.

HARTWRIL, Ga., January 8.—[Special.]— The triple cak, as it is generally known, lo-cated on Duel island, in the Savannah river, struck by lightning yesterday and shattered to pieces. The tree is one with a his-

At the time of the May freshet in 1840, five men were engaged in farming on this island. They took provisions with them to do for several days, as they lived too far off to go back and forth each day. When the rain began, they had no idea of danger and made no effort to leave the island. In a short time the waters had risen to such height that they could not escape. They went to the highest part of the island but soon found that something had to be done or they would be swept away. They found a tree with three trunks anited at the bottom and forking out a few feet above the ground and nailed strips of planks to each trunk, high enough as they thought would be secure, and made a sort of platform with boards, perched upon which, with the surging waters beneath, they remained for five long days and nights before they were rescued.

It was under the shade of this that Benjamin F. Perry and Bynum fought a duel over a half century ago. It was in the days of nullification, in 1832, when politics were stormy and party spirit ran high? Perry was a staunch unionist and Bynum was a fiery nullifier. The latter grossly insulted Perry, and in obedience to the barbarous custom that then prevailed, Perry had to challenge him or suffer disgrace at the bar of public opinion. At the day appointed they met on the island, each with his pistol and coffin. Bynum was an expert shot and it was confidently believed at Perry would bite the dust at the crack of his pistol. They fought at ten paces. At the word Perry fired first. Bynum then fired and his ball tore a hole through Perry's coat breast exposing the red lining. Colonel Huger, who was present and near Bynum, exclaimed, "He's got it," and Bynum replied, "I have too." Bynum's ball hit exactly where he had told his friends it would, but Perry's coat was a very loose fit, and the bullet grazed the skin, leaving a blue streak across his body. Perry's ball went through Bynum's thigh, cutting the main artery, and the poor fellow bled to death. He was carried to a house on the place now owned by Mr. Price, and the blood stains from his wounds were visible on the ceiling when the house was torn down last year. His remains were interred at the old stone church, three miles from Pen-

The Officials Looking About for a Site. Captain Wright Talks. Atlanta is going to have a new station house

The city council has been made aware of the necessity of such an improvement, and now the only thing is to find a suitable site for the new building and then sell the present building.

At the last meeting of the council Mr. King introduced a resolution in reference to the matter.

This was referred to the committee on public buildings, and it is understood that the committee is in favor of selling the old station house building and erecting of a new one.

Several locations are already under consideration by Chief Connolly and the police commissioners.

Said Captain J. M. Wright, captain of the police

Said Captain J. M. Wright, captain of the police force, yesterday:

"I hope the council will remember that the present stationhouse was built when the population of our city was less than 20,000 and the police force all told was twenty-six men. We then made about 2,500 cases a year.

"We now have a force of 120 men, and have had the past year over 12,000 cases, and all this business to be transacted in the same little station built for twenty-six men and built by apopulation of 20,000 people. I know the city fathers have had their hands full and have been faithful in the past, but at the same lime our department has been greatly neglected and the time has certainly come for a new building. It is impossible to transact the amount of business in the building as it is.

Many times we have to put a man charged with disorderly conduct in the same cell with the meanest kind of thief or burglar. We have small boys sometimes to lock up for a trifling offense, and they must go in the trap, and they come outworse than when they go in. It is all wrong, but it is the only place we have for male or female, old or young, drunk or sober, guilty or not guilty. "We have a good working department, all things considered. They seem to realize the importance of the positions they hold, which makes them the custodians of the good order of the city; the protectors of the property of the citizens and charged with multifarious important duties. There is no police department that is very popular, but of course the right; thinking find lawabiding people give in their moral support and good will. I feel proud of the record our department has made considering the area of square miles we have to police. A Fund to Be Raised to Secure It-Rockefeller's Princely Gift-Two Happy Marriages.

Macon, Ga., January 8.—[Special.]—Macon will make an energetic effort to secure the permanent military encampment. There are a number of fine, eligible sites in and about Macon and it is the intention of the city to se one of these and present it to the state through the military advisory board for the encampment. One of these sites consists of about twenty acres, which can be bought for about $6,000. It is expected that the city council will appropriate about $2,500, and the balance of the amount will be subscribed by University for the Endowment.

Macon, Ga., January 8.—[Special.]—Here is a splendid opportunity for all Baptists and the friends of Mercer university generally to show their loyalty and their friendship.

Bev. G. A. Numally, D.D., president of Mercer, has issued the following circular, which will be perused with interest:

Mercer university, founded by Jesse Mercer more than fifty years ago, is the property of the 200,000 Baptists in Georgia. During its existence it has made large contributions in men of ability to the professions, and to the useful walks of life, Some of Mercer's graduates fill the highest offices in the state and nation. The new governor of Georgia and twe of our congressmen were educated at Mercer.

The endowment of this college has been gradually growing, and the trustees, more than a year ago, opened it to all, without regard to denominational distinction, and made tuition free. During the past year, free tuition was given to 175 young men; board and tuition were given to thirty-eight, and board, tuition and books were given to six. The aim of the management is thorougnness in scholarship, good discipline at all times, and economy in expenditure.

The patronage has grown so large that a new building became necessary, and accordingly, it is being erected and is now nearing completion. To finish this building, the Baptists of Georgia expect to take collections in every church, during the month of January. The pastors of more than 200 churches have agreed to take collections in their churches, and it is desirable that every pastor do the same, and by concert of action, raise in one day, all the money that is needed. The Baptist pastors in this county are reminded of that purpose, and the members and friends should arrange and be ready to make large, and liberal and cheerful contributions. Let every one in the city and the country, both young and old, rich and poor, male and iemale, give something. Besides paying for the building they should also add to the endowment, and thus enable the colle wment, if they to give $19,000 to the endowment, if they will raise $40,000. Be sure to take a collection for Mercer university during the month of January, and send the money immediately to the president.

TWO HAPPY MARRIAGES.

Williams and Wasner-Cheny and Dure United in Wedlock.

Macon, Ga., January 8.—[Special.]—Last evening a very happy marriage occurred in East Macon at the residence of Mrs. John Wasner. Miss Hattie Wasner and Mr. Clarence Williams were the happy counts who was railroader and most excellent young gentle-

nan. His bride is a very lovely and accomplished roung lady. Mr. and Mrs. Wasner are the reyoung lady. Mr. and Mrs. Wasner are the re-recipients of many earnest congratulations. Tonight at the residence of the bride's father Captain George Dure, his charming and hand captain George Dure, in scharming and handsome daughter, Miss Emma, will wed
Mr. George Cheny, a young gentleman of many splendid qualities. Mr. Cheny is a son of ex-Sheriff Cheny. He formerly was in

Mrs. Cheny wish them a long life of happiness.

Big Increase in Real Estate.

Macon, Ga., January 8.—[Special.]—The Macon real estate market keeps stiff and has an upward tendency despite the money stringency. Sales are constantly being restringency. Sales are constantly being outported at good advances. As one evidence out of many, it may be stated that a short while ago Dr. John S. Baxter purchased an acre of land far out on Second street. Yesterday Hon. Tracy Baxter sold this property to Mr. William Lee Ellis for $2,000.

MURDER AND ARSON

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY OUTSIDE OF CORDELE

Which Has About It Features of Sensa tional Interest-The Bloodhound on the Trail.

CORDELE, Ga., January 8 .- [Special.]-Cordele suffered by fire for the third time this norning, since the Christmas holidays. Two of the Cordele security company's neat cottages in West Cordele, were burned to the ground and a woman and little girl perished in the flames. There is every evidence that murder and arson were committed. The two house were within twenty feet of each other, and each was occupied by two families. The family of a Mr. Lott and Mrs. Alice Peters and her ten-year old daughter, live in one of the and Mr. W. H. Marshal and Mr. Willie Wynney, with their wives, toccupied

THE NIGHT BEFORE.

Last night Mr. Lott and family were absent from the city and Mrs. Peters requested Mr. W. E. Smith to sleep in the house. At 10 o'clock Mr. Smith bade Mrs. Peters good night and retired to his room. He slept sou about 3 o'clock this morning, when he awoke to find his room filled with smoke and himself almost suffocated. He felt blindly for the door, and finding it, pulled it open and rushed into the hall. There he found the ceiling in flames, and he immediately ran to the door of Mrs. Peters' room. Finding it locked, he kicked it open. A perfect torrent of fire and smoke issued from the room, and he ran from the house to avoid the destruction of his life. The fire alarm was given at once, and the whole city soon arrived. People could only look upon the scene in horror. It was beyond the fire spot the building was so completely enveloped in fiames that the bucket brigade could be of no possible service.

BURNED TO DEATH. The adjoining building caught at once, and within an hour both houses were in ashes. As soon as the fire had spent itself sufficiently to allow a search, the charred and smoking bone of Mrs. Peters and her little Agnes were dis covered. The light of day brought out some startling disclosures, which have the town talking. Those saw the flames first burst forth, saw also the forms of several men hurrying from the burn ing building, and proceeding in various directions. A messenger was sent to Richwood, where a number of convicts are employed at a large sawmill, and several blood hounds were

The tracks of one of the men was easily found and as easily followed by the dogs After making a straight line for the thick water near the city, the tracks were traced over a zigzag route until they struck the Georgia Southern railroad at a flag station near the city. Here the dogs lost the scent, and it is supposed that the men met here and boarded the train for Macon, which leaves here about 3:15.

TWO MEN ARRESTED Two men were arrested this afternoon on spicion, but proved to be simply a tramp and peddler. It is supposed that the house was robbed, Mrs. Peters and her daughter murdered, and the torch applied to cover the crime. The remains of Mrs. Peters and her daughter were interred in the cemet this afternoon. She was an English lady and had no relatives in this country. THE STORY OF AN EGG

Which Was Found Embedded in a Giant Oak Tree. LAGRANGE, Ga., January 8 .- [Special During the month of December, Mr. Boyd, of this county, employed a boy to cut down one of the giant oaks in the grove at his place, known as the Cline place, for firewood. In the center of the tree about four feet from the ground was found a fresh hen's egg, embedded in the solid wood, there being no hollow or hole of any kind that the eyes of the astonished beholders could discern, for any one to place the egg—only space enough to hold it, as a bullet mould holds the bullet when closed. The tree was a little dotted around the egg. Now

TOO MUCH MORPHINE

NEARLY ENDS THE LIVES OF TWO PRISONERS

Who Are Confined in the Fulton County Jail. By Mistake They Take Morphine for Quintne.

Two revenue prisoners came within an ace of dying in the Fulton county jail Wednesday

It was too much morphine. Then yesterday morning two other prisoners But one was recaptured.

For several days past some of the revenue prisoners have been suffering with severe colds, and on Wednesday afternoon two of them were so ill that a physician was sent for. The two men are known as Justice and

The physician who responded to the call gave them each a dose of medicine, and then wrote a presciption for future use. Later in the evening the men were given a dose of the medicine. The medicine was presumably quinine. A half hour after swallowing the drug both men became drowsy.

Then one of them went to sleep. In some way one of the guards detected their condition and becoming alarmed notified the The jailer quickly realized that a mistake had been made and sent for the physician,

Then the prisoners were aroused sufficiently to get them on their feet. Supported each by two men they were marched up and down the jail yard until the physician arrived. It required no time for the medicine man to discover the true situation. Morphine and not quinine had been given the prisoners. And they were well under the influence of Antidotes were given and the two men were kept moving until they were out of danger. To the men the exercise was a terrible ordeal. So tired and sleepy that they were hardly able to drag one foot after the other they were kept going.

Just what caused the mistake and where it occurred is not known as the officials are not inclined to talk. The prisoners, however, are not so reticent.

Two Men Escape. The morphine mistake frightened the other prisoners about the jail and two of them made dash for liberty yesterday morning about 11 o'clock. They were both revenue men and were booked as Mardy and Hayne. Mardy was recaptured.

The men were in the part of the jail set apart for United States prisoners, and at the door was a guard. About 11 o'clock the guard called a relief to him and started into another part of the building. At that instant the two men rushed through the door and made for

The officers gave chase, and in a few minutes overtook Mardy. He was returned to Hayne proved a swift runner and succeeded in making good his escape. It is thought that he went to Cobb county.

court the mayor tried violations of the city ordinances, holding his court each day in the old city hall building which used to stand where the new capitol now is.

"When the boys made an arrest, after the prisoner had been lodged in the guardhouse, he was marched across town to the city hall by the officer who made the arrest. In the morning we all went over together, each man holding his prisoner by the arm. It'd look funny to see a lot of policemen marching their prisoners throught the streets now. But it was all right in those days.

prisoners throught the streets now. But it was all right in those days.

"We didn't have any chief of police, like we lo now. The marshal and deputy marshal and charge of the department.

"When I came on in '71, Tom Williams was marshal and his deputy was John L. Johnson. Sid Holland—poor fellow, he's dead and gone—was lieutenant Dave Queen was also lieutenant. We had about twenty-eight or thirty men on the force, but we managed to keep things pretty straight.

"In '71 we worked twelve hours a day and were paid $2. In '72 we worked eight hours and got $2.25 for it. That's when we had a picnic.

'It was only a few months after I was elected to the force that this building was fin-ished and the department moved in. It was plenty big then, and, in fact, we had plenty of room for a long time, but now—well, it's not my place to say anything about present Nobody on the force is better liked than

A Man With Three Arms.

From The St. Louis Republic.

The unusual sight of a man with three full-sized arms and hands may be daily seen upon the streets of Marbette, British Columbia. He is a Russian by birth, and first came to America, in 1877, as an by birth, and first came to America, in 1877, as an attache of the Greek church, at Sitka, Alaska, where he resided about 1884. He is a large, powerfully-built man, but seems to have no control of this extra bodily member, which hangs down his back from a point almost exactly between his shoulders, and rolls from side to side in an unsightly manner, as though paralyzed. Besides being well equipped in the way of arms, he has a set of teeth that are double all the way around. It is hardly necessary to add that the deformity of his teeth does not derract from a natural fercelouslooking countenance. Notwithst inding his wicked appearance he is a mild-mannered, Christian gunteman.

known as one of the best citizens of the county; Mr. E.; A. Donahoo, a man greatly liked and highly respected by all who knew him, will be connected with the office.

Mr. J. T. Jordan, a staunch democrat and a jam up citizen, will have charge of the jail.

The only other changes will be in the tax collector and coroner's offices. Mr. Armistead, who stands very high as an upright and honest citizen, assisted by Mr. John Gatins, than whom there is no more popular young man in the city, will receive the tax returns; and honest Ben Davis, a one-legged confederate veteran, will take Dr. Avary's place as coroner.

Wright Stille, Ga., January 8.—[Special.]—The election for county officers passed off quietly and as it was a close contest between some of the candidates a safe account could not be sent in sooner. The following parties were elected: Z. M. Mason, clerk; James Linder, sheriff; J. F. Norris, tax collector; E. L. Smith, tax receiver; C. M. Dent, treasurer; W. B. Poole, surveyor, and Moses Bruton, coroner. The main issue in the races was whether or not the popular vote wou'd endorse the alliance endorsement. The alliance lost all their men except treasurer and tax receiver.

LAFAVETTE, Ga., January 8.—[Special.]—The election here resulted as follows: For clerk of the superior court, R. N. Dickerson; for sheriff, W. A. Foster; for tax receiver, Micajah Baker; for collector, W. G. Conley; for treasurer, R. F. Mize. The election passed off very quietly.

Monros, Ga., January 8.—[Special.]—The election for county officers resulted in the election of all the old officers except tax receiver; H. C. Morris, treasurer; J. C. Taylor, coroner.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., January 8.—[Special.]—The full count in the election of yesterday changed the estimated result, as wired The Construction, in the offices of tax collector and tax receiver; J. F. Wilson, instead of Stembridge, was elected tax collector by 18 plurality. H. E. Hendrix was elected over P. T. Ennis by 160 majority. Th

H. Clopton, tax receiver; J. C. Reid, tax collector; S. R. Lawrence, sheriff; H. R. Pinkerton, surveyor; C. R. Badger, coroner. There were five candidates in the field for tax collector, and Mr. Reid was elected by nearly 300 majority. W. E. Bost opposed Badger for coroner, but Badger received a majority of 300.

GREXISSORO, Ga., January S.—[Special.]—The election passed off quietly, J. P. Wilson, clerk; J. B. Park, Jr., treasurer; J. H. English, sheriff, and S. P. Turner, surveyor, had no opposition, and were re-elected. M. G. Copeian, receiver, was opposed by J. P. Wagnon, and Copeian won: J. H. Wood, present incumbent as coroner, defeated T. F. Foster. The greatest interest centered in the race for tax collector. L. C. Perdue, farmers allianceman, defeated H. S. Mapp, the present incumbent, by only 30 votes out of 1,100.

DEATH OF A NOTED CHARACTER Colonel John C. Maund, of Talbot County, Breathes His Last. From The Columbus, Ga., Su.

Colonel John C. Maund, of Talbot county, died at his home at Juniper at 11 o'clock Tuesday night, surrounded by his family and friends, having reached the advanced age of seventy-seven years.

Colonel Maund was one of the most noted characters in Georgia, and represented Talbot county in the legislature a number of terms.

Quoting his own words, Colonel Maund was born in Putnam county, September 10, 1813, between "Devil's Half Acre and Trickham, on Murder creek." Colonel Maund modestly ommemorated his early beginning, stating that his educational advantages, though not that his educational advantages, though not protracted through a tedious undergraduate term, were ample and complete. He took the degree of master of arts in "Slaughter's plum orchard" and retained his remarkable powers as a speaker by repeated perusal of the once famous Columbian orator. As a soldier, his career was brilliant and dashing to the extreme of temerity. In one of his unguarded woments of selfits It one of his unguarded moments of self-assertion, the colonel disclosed that he entered the confederate militia and joined the expedition to Macon. Stoneman, on his raid, missed him just one mile and a half, which so acted on his nervous system that, boarding a small mule, he fell back rapidly to his farm in small mule, he fell back rapidly to his farm in Talbot county, where he remained until his death, except during the term of years which he spent in Atlanta, representing his county in the legislature.

Quoting from a sketch of his life, written some years ago, Mr. Maund's views on religion were most emphatic and original enough to be German. When asked about his theory of the matter, he replied that he was a hardshell Methodist, including wheat straw and shout-

Methodist, including wheat straw and shouting.

These few autobiographical hints were derived directly from the subject of the sketch himself, but it was almost an unnecessary trouble to seek any information in reference to Colonel Maund. The people of Talbot and Muscogee counties all knew him. The rest of the counties knew him, and the country knew him, and not to know him evinces a great need of travel and general information. Take him on the subject of finance, and in a few words he would make a fool of a Wall street chevaller, who is always telling a man how to get money. who is always telling a man how to get money without working for it. Take him on farming and he illustrated by his corn crib and his smokehouse; take him on pisciculture and he talked more and better fish in forty minutes than any man in the south: but when you approached his specialty, a land trade, and what wild lands were good for, it had best been done reverently and with uncovered head. Mr. Maund's country owes him a debt of gratitude for some of his lessons in wild lands which he imparted to certain gentlemen who resided in New York. Playing, as our subject said, most patriotically "for even," Mr. Maund generously parted with his deeds to a dukedom in the wiregrass country, every acre of which, according to the generous confession of the northern purchasers, "could float a gun ship." This was nothing but due appreciation and poetic justice. Take him for all in all, there is no other John C. Maund in Georgia and no close second to him. The soul of wit, of incisive common sense, of generous hospitality, no man in Georgia was more admired and none more

GALVESTON, TEXAS.

This company having become sole owners of certain letters patent of the United States, granted for an improvement in the method of baling and compressing cotton, now offer for sale state rights covering the process. Said letters patent relate to a simple and inexpensive appliance, automatic in its action, which, when used in connection with the ordinary gin and baling press now in common use, can turn out, at a smaller expense to the producer than is done by present methods, a bale of cotton which will be received by the railroads and transportation companies, as a compressed bale, thus saving all cost of compressing, and avoid delay in shipment, as well as economizing in labor, insurance, interest, etc.

We invite the public to inspect our plant in Galveston, where our process is in successful operation.

Forterms relating to purchase of state rights, etc., apply at the office of the company in Galveston.

TOO MUCH MORPHINE

NEARLY ENDS THE LIFES OF TWO

Who Are Confined in the Fulton County Jail. By Mistake They Take Morphine for Quinine.

Two revenue prisoners came within an ace of dying in the Fulton county jail Wednesday

It was too much morphine.
Then yesterday morning two other prisoners

But one was recaptured. For several days past some of the revenue prisoners have been suffering with severe colds, and on Wednesday afternoon two of them were so ill that a physician was sent for. The two men are known as Justice and

The physician who responded to the call gave them each a dose of medicine, and then wrote a presciption for future use. Later in the evening the men were given

dose of the medicine. The medicine was pre sumably quinine. A half hour after swallowing the drug both men became drowsy.

Then one of them went to sleep. In some way one of the guards detected their condition and becoming alarmed notified the

The jailer quickly realized that a mistake had been made and sent for the physician,

Then the prisoners were aroused sufficiently to get them on their feet. Supported each by two men they were marched up and down the jail yard until the

It required no time for the medicine man to discover the true situation. Morphine and not quinine had been given the prisoners. And they were well under the influence of the drug.

Antidotes were given and the two men were kept moving until they were out of danger. To the men the exercise was a terrible ordeal. So tired and sleepy that they were hardly able to drag one foot after the other they were kept going.

Just what caused the mistake and where it occurred is not known as the officials are not inclined to talk. The prisoners, however, are not so reticent.

Two Men Escape. The morphine mistake frightened the other prisoners about the jail and two of them made a dash for liberty yesterday morning about 11

They were both revenue men and were booked as Mardy and Hayne.

Mardy was recaptured. The men were in the part of the jail set apart for United States prisoners, and at the door was a guard. About 11 o'clock the guard called a relief to him and started into another part of the building. At that instant the two nen rushed through the door and made for the street.

The officers gave chase, and in a few minutes overtook Mardy. He was returned to Hayne proved a swift runner and succeeded in making good his escape. It is thought that he went to Cobb county. THEN AND NOW.

Uncle Jim Parrish, who has just closed his twentieth consecutive year as a member of the Atlanta police force, was talking of the department as it was when he came on twenty years ago. "Then," said he, "the station house down on Line street, where the street carshed now is, and instead of a recorder's court the mayor tried violations of the city ordinances, holding his court each day in the old city hall building which used to stand where the new capitol now is.

"When the boys made an arrest, after the prisoner had been lodged in the guardhouse, he was marched across town to the city hall by the officer who made the arrest. In the by the officer who made the arrest. In the morning we all went over together, each man holding his prisioner by the arm. THE BOYAL ARCANUM BANQUET. The Invitations Have Been Issued-Officers to Be Installed.

The Atlanta council, No. 160, Royal Arcanum, issued yesterday invitations for its banquet, to be held January 15th, at Concordia hall. The banquet will be given for the purpose of celebrating the installation of its recently elected officers: Regent, J. S. Panchen; vice regent, W. F. Parkhurst;

J. S. Panchen; vice regent, W. F. Parkhurst; past regent, I. Guthman; orator, Major Hubner; secretary, G. S. Prior; treasurer, A. Fox; collector, J. H. Ketner; chaplain, J. S. Carlyle; guide, John Berkele; warden, S. L. Solomonson; sentinel, Max Franklin.

The committee of arrangements consists of Amos Fox, chairman; Albert Howell, Sr., John Berkele, E. P. Chamberlin, Jack N. Harris. Master of ceremonies, W. L. Calhoun. Committee on dancing, H. L. Rosenfeld, chairman.

The Arcanum is in a flourishing condition. Its members number nearly 400. were initiated at its meeting last night. Speaking Fishes.

The great German naturalist, Stern, published in The Revue Politique et Litteraire, a short time ago, a very curious and interesting article on speaking fishes. Some varieties, he affirms, can whistle, bark and grunt, while others do very well as songsters, considering the fact that they are scaled instead of being feathered. Did we enumerate all of the peculiar speaking, grunting and whitstling denizens of the waters mentioned by Professor denizens of the waters mentioned by Professor Stern the entire space allotted to "Notes for the Curious" would be taken up; however we must give a few of the most striking instances of vocal sounds made by the great ounds made by the great German's piscator sounds made by the great German's piscatorial rarities: Scievia, a little six-inch chub variety of the lagoons of Italy, sticks its head above the water and sings a dainty song equal to that of some species of warbling birds; Trigla hirundo (the sea swallow) is known to every fisherman of the Danube and the Rhine by the peculiar grunting noise it makes. Trigla noiltans make a whining noise like a young appy, while Scivena gathers in bands to hold regular concerts, no doubt originating the fable of the Sirens.

A Man With Three Arms

From The St. Louis Republic. From The St. Louis Republic.

The unusual sight of a man with three full-sized arms and hands may be daily seen upon the streets of Marbette, British Columbia. He is a Russian by birth, and first came to America, in 1877, as an attache of the Greek church, at Sitka, Alaska, where he resided about 1884. He is a large, powerfully-built man, but seems to have no control of this extra bodily member, which hangs down his back from a point almost exactly between his shoulders, and rolls from side to side in an unsightly manner, as though paralyzed. Besides being well equipped in the way of arms, he has a set of teeth that are double all the way around. It is hardly necessary to add that the deformity of his toeth does not detract from a natural ferecious-looking countenance. Notwithstanding his wicked appearance he is a mild-mannered, Christian gwnteman. attache of the Greek church, at Sitka, Alaska

COUNTY ELECTIONS.

COUNTY.

The Results in the Various Counties of th State Still Continued-The Men Who Will Be Near the People.

The returns of Fulton county elections were onsolidated yesterday morning. There were just 539 votes cast.

The sheriff, tax receiver and county sur veyor led the ticket, and the coroner brought up the rear. The vote stood thus:

Clerk superior court, G. H. Tanner, 535 sheriff, J. W. Morrow, 539; tax collector, A. P. Stewart, 537; tax receiver, Thomas M. Arm istend, 539; treasurer, C. M. Payne, 538; coroner B. J. Davis, 531; surveyor, W. W. Griffin, 539, Sheriff Morrow will hardly enter into the discharge of his duties before Monday, as he has to arrange his books and fix up other de-

His deputies will be Mr. Will D. Green, sor His deputies will be Mr. Will D. Green, son of the late Judge C. C. Greene, who occupies his father's old position in the superior court. Mr. Greene severs his connection with Messrs. McKeldin & Carlton, carrying with him the highest esteem and the most hearty appreciation of services rendered his late employers. Mr. M. N. The greatest interest centered in the race for tax collector. L. C. Perdue, farmers allianceman, defeated H. S. Mapp, the present incumbent, by only 30 votes out of 1,100.

DEATH OF A NOTED CHARACTER Colonel John C. Maund, of Talbot County, From The Columbus, Ga., Sun.

Colonel John C. Maund, of Talbot county, died at his home at Juniper at 11 o'clock Tuesday night, surrounded by his family and friends, having reached the advanced age of seventy-seven years. Colonel Maund was one of the most noted characters in Georgia, and represented Talbot

Quoting his own words, Colonel Maund was born in Putnam county, September 10, 1813, between "Devil's Half Acre and Trickham, on Murder creek." Colonel Maund modestly memorated his early beginning, stating that his educational advantages, though not protracted through a tedious undergraduate term, were ample and complete. He took the degree of master of arts in "Slaughter's plum orchard" and retained his remarkable powers as a speaker by re-peated perusal of the once famous Colum-bian orator. As a soldier, his career was brilliant and dashing to the extreme of temerity. In one of his unguarded moments of self-assertion, the colonel disclosed that he en-tered the confederate militia and joined the tered the confederate militia and joined the expedition to Macon. Stoneman, on his raid, missed him just one mile and a half, which so acted on his nervous system that, boarding a small mule, he fell back rapidly to his farm in Talbot county, where he remained until his death, except during the term of years which death, except during the term of years which he spent in Atlanta, representing his county in the legislature.

Quoting from a sketch of his life, written some years ago, Mr. Maund's views on religion were most emphatic and original enough to be German. When asked about his theory of the matter, he replied that he was a hardshell Methodist, including wheat straw and shout-

Methodist, including wheat straw and shouting.

These few autobiographical hints were derived directly from the subject of the sketch himself, but it was almost an unnecessary trouble to seek any information in reference to Colonel Maund. The people of Talbot and Muscogee counties all knew him. The rest of the counties knew him, and the country knew him, and not to know him evinces a great need of travel and general information. Take him on the subject of finance, and in a few words he would make a fool of a Wall street chevalier, who is always telling a man how to get money would make a fool of a Wall street chevalier, who is always telling a man how to get money without working for it. Take him on farming and he illustrated by his corn crib and his smokehouse; take him on pisciculture and he talked more and better fish in forty minutes than any man in the south; but when you approached his specialty, a land trade, and what wild lands were good for, it had best been done reverently and with uncovered head. Mr. Maund's country owes him a debt of gratitude for some of his lessons in wild lands which he imparted to certain gentlemen who resided in New York. Playing, as our subject said, most patriotically "for even," Mr. Maund generously parted with his deeds to a dukedom in the wiregrass country, every acre of which, according to the genhis deeds to a dikedom in the wiregrass country, every acre of which, according to the generous confession of the northern purchasers, "could float a gun ship." This was nothing but due appreciation and poetic justice. Take him for all in all, there is no other John C. Maund in Georgia and no close second to him. The soul of wit, of incisive common to the country hearitality. nse, of generous hospitality, no man in corgia was more admired and none more

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 9, 1891.

The Constitution and the Presidency. The following editorial extract from The Kansas City Journal is similar in character to the comment of a great many other newspapers concerning the position of THE CONSTITUTION on the question of the choice of the next democratic presidential nominee. The Kansas City Journal says:

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION may not be falling into line for David B. Hill, but it is certainly falling out of the line of Cleveland adherents. ild have stood greater chance of success had it been sprung immediately after his defeat. It is hard to keep a boom in a healthy condition for four years.

Concerning this important matter THE CONSTITUTION does not desire to be misrepresented or misunderstood. We have not antagonized the "Cleveland boom," and if, in several times defending Governor Hill from the unjust attacks of mugwump organs, our language has been construed to convey the impression that we are antagonistic to President Cleveland it is because we have been misunderstood.

First, and above all things, we are for the democratic party, which, in the language of Mr. Cleveland, is confronted "with a condition, and not a theory." Governor Hill has been violently assailed by the mugwump press, and as an earnest, outspoken democrat, who deserves the gratitude of the party for his efforts in its behalf, we have taken pleasure in resenting these attacks, the motive of which has been to weaken him with his party. We have stated that he represents the democratic idea of tariff reform, and is especially sound on the democratic position on the silver question. His public record on this matter will require no modification to suit the democratic plat-

When the democrats of McKinley's district in Ohio were appealing for help, he responded promptly, and Mr. McKinley has stated that "if Hill had stayed out of his district he would not have been defeated." In this he not only satisfied the democrats of that district, but throughout the country.

Being sound on tariff reform and the silver question, as well as an earnest exponent of the battle cry of "turn the rascals out," which is as important now as it was in 1884, we believe that the democratic party could go further and do much worse than by nominating Governor Hill. In such an event, if followed, as it no doubt would be, by democratic success at the polls, Mr. Blaine would be unable to say at the end of his administration that 74 per cent of republican officers were retained in one department because enough honest democrats not be found to fill their places.

The importance of the vote of New York cannot be questioned, for without It the democratic party cannot succeed. Governor Hill's stronghold on the party in his state is, therefore, another reason why his proposed candidacy should attract more than usual interest.

But in saying what we have said about Governor Hill we have not antagonized Mr. Cleveland or his support. We are ready to fall in line with as much earnestness for Mr. Cleveland as for any other democrat who may be the choice of the party. We do not believe by any means that Governor Hill is the only democrat that can be elected, but whoever is to be elected must be a democrat. believe in democracy, and be beyond the seductive influence of the mugwumps.

This matter is no child's play for the democratic party. It is business. The convention of 1892 will be called upon to select a man who will suit the demcratic party, not in one particular, but all He must be a man who will be der obligation, if elected, to the people the whole country, and not alone to the wugwumps. However, this discussion is premature. for death and mistake makes many changes in politics in the course of a year. Only a few days ago old man Hoar was taken from the pinnacle of hope and dashed and broken on the rock of despair. We expect to support the nominee of a democratic party with all the earnestness that is in us, whoever it may be, but in the selection of that man it is not out of place for us to caution the party to make no mistake, and to choose man who stands firmly to the principles of the party, without any trimming or preparation to put himself in accord with it. We are not hunting for a man to suit THE CONSTITUTION, but one that will suit the democratic party and its principles, with the ability to discharge the duties of the office, and firmness enough ot to turn over the results of the vicory to a squad of deserters, who run, nder cover of the democratic flag, when victory is in sight.

A Season of Epidemics. The new year has opened with an usually long array of mortuary figures in all and meningitis ravage entire communities. The south and southwest are not much more fortunate, as the grip has reappeared in several states, and smallpox is rapidly spreading in many towns.

All this bears out the gloomy predictions to the effect that a green Christmas makes a fat churchyard, and it must be admitted that the health outlook for the remainder of January is not very promising. We are not having a remarkably cold winter, but the weather seems to favor the propagation of several malignant diseases. The only safeguard that suggests itself is the exercise of great caution in the matter of exposure and excesses of all kinds. At this season of the year even a slight cold may prove fatal. Prevention is better than cure any time, and people will find that in the long run it pays to take care of them-

The New Hampshire Outrage.

The situation in New Hampshire has dwindled down to what may be termed a democratic fiasco, and it is a beautiful and an interesting scene from first to last. Its most interesting feature is the attitude of the democrats who stand and view the scene from afar and wonder how it is the republicans can leap so nimbly in the air and cut so many capers.

We judge from events that while there are a great many honest and earnest democratic voters in New Hampshire there is not such thing as an organized democratic party. There is no leader-no democrat strong enough and fearless enough to take advan tage of the constitutional cowardice that lurks behind the brutal audacity of such men as Bill Chandler. And yet, it seems to as that New Hampshire ought to give to the country one democrat fearless enough to seize a promising situation by the ears and wist it into a democratic victory.

After all it is not so much a question o emocratic success as a question whether the people of New Hampshire shall be allowed to govern themselves. At the last election the people voted the democratic party into power in that state. Wednesday the will of the people was treated with contempt by a clerk of the house selected for that purpose. The whole swindling business has been concocted by Bill Chandler, and the success of it in this instance has established a precedent which will enable a clerk of the house to overturn the will of the people, no matter how emphatic their ver-

And there will be no appeal. The su oreme court of New Hampshire has decided that it has no jurisdiction in such cases, and what the clerk of the house did last Wednesday any other clerk of the house can do at any organization of that body. He can do as Clerk Jewett has done-count out members elected by the people and count in members not elected until he has a majority sufficiently large to carry out the wishes of the faction that has bought him to do its dirty work. The only mistake made by Chandler and his tools was in suspecting that there was spirit enough among the representatives of the people to seriously resent the outrage they contemplated committing. And it was a curious mistake for Chandler to make knowing New Hampshire as he does. Yet the knowledge of the infamy of the republican scheme probably led him to believe hat the people would not submit to have their governor and senator stolen from them.

Acting on this belief, the republicans placed policemen on guard in the house of representatives, but their was no need for the presence of these municipal officers. There was no serious protest; there was even "laughter" at one stage of the proceedings. There is this consolation-if New Hampshire can stand it the rest of the coun-

A Forced Admission

It is no longer possible for English news papers and English officials to deny that there is suffering in Ireland and that a famine is imminent. Indeed, the sufferings of the people have reached that stage when speedy measures of relief must be taken, and now, at this late day, Mr. Balfour is forced to admit that if aid is not extended the people will experience acute distress during the

It is a tardy admission. If it had been made earlier much of the distress predicted might have been prevented. But when it was first announced that the potato crop, on which the poor of Ireland largely depend, was a failure and famine would ensue, the English press ridiculed the idea and thus allayed the fears of the friends of Ireland across the water, while creating doubts of the danger in the United States

But now the specter of famine is at their very doors; the government is alarmed and Mr. Balfour is calling loudly for assistance, nnouncing that he is ready to receive subscriptions, food, clothing or anything else.

It is the duty of the English government to take instant action for the relief of the Irish people, and it should not allow any serious suffering to obtain in Ireland. It is, in a measure, responsible for this suffering and should not add another famine to the miseries of an oppressed people.

The London News, and other papers, realizing the gravity of the situation, are calling upon the government to institute immediate neasures of relief. The famine is a fact.

Confederate Notes in Germany. Captain Ramiro Alvarez, of the Guatemalan army, has come to grief in a speculative enterprise of a rather daring character. The captain for several months past has been sojourning in Germany. In some unexplained way he came into possession of arge quantities of confederate notes. Possibly he had faith in their ultimate redemption. At all events, it struck him that they were good enough to pay his debts with, and finding the hotel keepers willing to take them, he has been leading a jolly life for But the hotel men in Berlin are strictly business, and it is impossible to convince them that the currency of the late confederacy will ever be redeemed. At first they pocketed the picturesque war relics without uspicion, and the notes bearing pictures of negroes, mules and cotton bales excited their special admiration. When they learned that the bills were of no value except as curiosities, they had Alvarez arrested, and he will now wind up his tour by spending the next eight months in a German prison.

It may be just, but it is sad. This bold inancier of the first water. W

An esteemed correspondent at Sheffield, Ala., calls our attention to a recent editorial paragraph in The New York Independent, in which it is argued that a federal election law is needed to bring out the suppressed negro vote.

The Independent bases its charge that the negro vote is suppressed upon the small number of votes cast for southern congressmen in 1890. The matter has been explained time and again. In every southern state the democratic primaries make the election of the chosen candidates a foregone conclusion, and on election day very few people feel sufficiently interested to go to the polls. In many localities the republicans have no organization, and they rarely think it worth the trouble to enter a congressional race.

This is the sum and substance of the whole business. The Independent is a religious paper, but its political editorials are as grossly unfair as anything that can be found in the columns of the rabid organs of such stålwart republicans as Hoar, Lodge and Reed.

The Yorkville Enquirer.

Fresh from the ashes of disaster, The Yorkville Enquirer makes its reappearance in the

It would be hard to name two tickets more likely to win universal support of the tickets more likely to win universal support of the respective parties. Farmers seem determined to have it out again between Blaine and Cleveland, but they are equally sincere in demanding full recognition for their special interests. Hence we infer that if Rusk and Hatch do not lead the tickets, the farmers will insist on their having second place. Certain it is that Mr. Cleveland's phenomenal popularity among farmers renders it politically senseless for any other man to strive for first place on the democratic ticket. There is no such degree of unanimity among the republicans, though Blaine and Rusk is the inevitable outcome of the present temper of the farmers."

Three County Alliances Unite in Calling Upon Senator A. C. Hill to Be in the Field for Endorsement.

CUTHBERT, Ga., January 8 .- [Special.]-The Georgia senatorial race will be carried into the next legislative election by the con stituents of Senator Hill. It seems that when enator Hill persisted in his purpose to vote against General Gordon, some people in Fort Gaines were so offended that they burned him in effigy. A BIG BUILDING.

EIGHT STORIES AND A BASEMENT HIGH.

he Great Plans for the Equitable Building Mr. Joel Hurt and the East Atlanta Land Company-Mr. Root.

Eight stories and a basement!

That's the size of the "Equitable" building! To view the prospective drawing of this milding is to see that Atlanta is taking on the tropolitan air that now characterizes the est cities throughout the north and west, The "Equitable" is going to be the handmest and completest building in the south t is to be built by the East Atlanta Land mpany, and is named for the Equitable surance Society. The project is a pet eme of Mr. H. B. Hyde, president of that iety, and the plans of the building are in he hands of Burnham & Root, of Chicago, he famous architects.

Mr. Root, who is an old Atlanta citizen, and son of Major Sidney Root, of this city, came Atlanta yesterday, bringing the full par-culars and details of the plans. Mr. J. H. Dinwiddle, who has special supervision of the estruction of the building, is also a former citizen of Atlanta, and is here from Chicago enter upon the work of superintending the struction, which will begin within the ext few days. He is a civil engineer and an

by significant and suggestive carvings and of the curved bays which are carried above these entrances, decorative carvings are very sparingly employed.

"The first story, which will be of stone—probably of granite—is composed in the main of circular columns three feet in diameter, behind which the first story windows are placed. "Light brick and terra cotta are the chief materials in the upper stories. The type of architecture employed could not in the nature of the case, be a servile copylof any pre-existing types, since it has never happened in the earlier history of architectural development that structures of this class were erected. As far as is consistent with the essentially novel uses in the building, as viewed from an architectural standpoint, the style employed is that in vogue at the end of thee fifteenth century in France.

"We also hope to have a perfect system of

THE BEST IN THE SOUTH.

"It is intended that this building, in the matter of design, the perfection and completeness of construction, finish and arrangement, shall be second to no building in the United States. Of course it will not be as high as some of the new York, Beston and Chicago houses, but with this single exception it will chal enge comparison with any of them. A perfect cak finish on the interior will make the building hand-some from basement to top."

ALL ABOUT THE BUILDING. Mr. Root talks interestingly about the

"Equitable."
"The building," says he, "will extend 160 feet on Pryor street, 185 on Edgewood avenue and eighty-nine on Porter's alley. It will be eight stories and a basement high making a day. Edgewood avenue and Pryor street of 120 feet.
"There will be two corners, one at the inter-tion of Edgewood avenue and Pryor street, and one at the avenue and Porter's alley, giving a truncated shape, with three and four sided bays giving diagonal entrances at these

"The principal entrance will be in the cenof Pryor street and Edgewood avenue ronts, each being fourteen feet wide and lead ing into a hall twenty-one feet wide, where the four elevators are grouped, plainly visible from both streets.

A LARGE COURT. "Light is admitted to the intersection of the halls both in this story and stories above by windows opening from the interior court. To the right and left of the elevators, and still plainly visible from the streets, are two hallways, each eight and a half feet wide, leading into a rotunda 48x60 feet, which occupies th first story of the open court, separated from it by a roof of glass. "The line of intersection of this skylight with the walls of the court come somewhat below the ceiling of the first story so that the windows of the first story open below the line of the glass and above it by transoms into the open sir. Above this story the court thus occupied comes entirely open, affording to the offices surrounding it light and ventilation equal to that obtained by offices fronting the streets.

THE OFFICES ARRANGED.

"In the stories above the first, the offices are arranged in two tiers. The outer tier gives upon the streets, and is separated by a corridor m the inner tier, which gives upon the is paved and wainscoted with marble, is tained by outer windows, at the end, and by class transom lights opening at the line of the door transoms from the offices into the

"In relation to the subdivisions of all of the stories, it should be stated, that all interior partitions are non-constructive, being carried by instead of carrying the metal. Partitions, therefore, may be placed at any point to suit the requirements of tenants, whether in their first occupancy or in response to their future expanding needs.

THE BASEMENTS. The arrangement in the basements contem-plates the possibility in finish, in height, in te and beauty of access for its partial use by a large and complete cafe, which may be con-nected by interior stairs and lifts, with a first-class and elegant restaurant in the rotunda eath the open court. "In the eighth or top story are located parshops, toilet rooms, etc., lighted from dpen A SPLENDID STRUCTURE.

"In the construction of the building, the atmost care will be taken, that judged from the most critical standpoint and by the widest and test experience, it shall be abso-tely fireproof. Whatever construct-te material is used, such as rought steel columns and rolled steel beams, wrought steel columns and rolled steel beams, upon which the interior construction depends are thoroughly protected from possible heat by enclosure in burned fire clay separated from the metal by air spaces. All the material used is incombustible. When it is remembered that both interior and exterior are incombustible equally, and that any fire originating within the building could be only so important as might be made by the furniture and other contents of a room, the comprehensiveness with which the word fireproof is used in this building will be understood.

A more attractive or merry crowd of childre A more attractive or merry crowd of children cannot be imagined than those who were assembled in honor of the birthday of this little miss and the hearty and enthusiastic enjoyment was evinced by their bright faces and sparkling eyes. Very delightful refreshments were served. The dining room presented one of the most attractive scenes of the occasion. Small tables were arranged about the room and were prettily decorated with flowers and lighted tapers. On the center table was the birthday cake illuminated by means of ten white tapers. During the evening this was feen white tapers. of ten white tapers. During the evening this was cut by the children and much excitement was produced by the search for the ring and dime which were within it. Miss Julia received her guests in a graceful manner. She was becomingly dressed in a gown of white, trimmed with lace and ribbon. Many games were introduced for the amusement of the children, and the occasion was one of the most thorough enjoyment. Many dainty presents were presented to Miss Julia with the best wishes of her little friends.

At the late meeting of the Young Ladies' German Club, it was decided that a ball would be given at the Kimball house, on Tuesday evening, the 13th of January. It will be a "bal blanc," and the costumes will undoubtedly be beautiful and artistic. Everything is to be in white, even to the decorations. The german will be led by Mrs. Crankshaw, which thus assures a most delightful

PRESIDENT CALHOUN WRITES A CARD CONCERNING THE WORK.

Building Is Ready, but the Means of Maintenance Have Not as Yet Been Provided.

The Veterans' Home! The proudest monument to southern pa-triotism in the land. The hand is cold that penned the first lines that thrilled the entire country, advocating its erection. But the work has gone nobly forward, and staunch hearts and ready hands have most faithfully carried out the generous conception of tha brilliant brain.

But the means of maintaining that he many letters of inquiry in relation to the opening of the home, and not finding time to answer them all at once, I think it proper to make a short statement of facts for the public. As is well known, the fund for purchasing the site and building the home was mainly contributed by patriotic citizens of Georgia, aided, to some extent, by friends of the case presiding eleavance. On the 33st day. of the cause residing elsewhere. On the 31st day of May, $889, 1191/4 acres of land, situated near Grant park, were purchased at a cost of $9,540. In December, 1889, the building was commenced, and has just been completed, at a cost of about $27,000, exclusive of contributions of heaters and other appurtens Several thousand dollars were expended in im-provement of grounds, architects, insurance and other expenses; complete statements of all of which will be rendered specifically when the final reports are made to the trustees by the several officials connected with the work. These pay-ments consumed the funds contributed for the purpose, and nothing was left for the mantenance of the institution. The building contains sixty large rooms, and is a handsome structure and complete in every particular. In September of last year the trustees met and deeming it finlast year the trustees met and deeming it im-practicable to attempt to maintain the home from private subscription, determined to tender it to the state, upon condition that the home should be maintained by the state for the benefit of such ex-confederate soldiers as may need the benefit thereof for the period of twenty five years; the property then to belong to the stat absolutely. A property then to belong to the state absolutely. A proper bill was prepared and introduced in the general assembly at the recent session thereof. That body, at the invitation of the trustees, visited the home. The bill was referred to the finance committee of the home, and all proper information was furnished that committee. The trustees represented to the members that, in their judgment, the present system of pensions did not meet all the de-ent system of pensions did not meet all the de-mands—there being a class of old soldiers in the state having no homes or families, and drifting helplessly about in the different communities; that this home would furnish for them a sweet place of rest and comfort in their declining years; that they had responded to the call of the state when the invader was advancing upon her soil, and she owed it to them as a sacred debt-not alone as a charity—to provide for them during the few years longer they might require it; that this home would ever be a monument, visible to all men, commemorative of the justice and generosity of the state in providing for her sons, now old and disabled, but who made the grandest struggle for liberty the world has seen; that the costs to the state annually would be very little, and would be reimbursed if not more, in the largely increased, and increasing, value of the land-it now being worth six or seven times what it cost. The trustees were of the opinion that the legislature should have accepted it unnani-mously, but the finance committee, after much delay laid it on the table, with assurance, however, from some of the members that it would be passed at the July session. Whether this will be done I cannot venture an opinion. The home cannot be opened until some provision is made for its support. How that is to be done is the ques-tion. The board of trustees will soon be called to-gether to consider the situation. In the meantime the old soldiers must do the best they can. They were noble and earnest and brave in war, and in peace have been equally, if not more so, in their struggles with poverty and misfortune. There have been faw lieggars amongst them, God forbid that there should be any in this plenteous land of ours. I conclude this hastily written article with the expression of an abiding faith and hope that there is too much love and charity and justice in the hearts and minds of the people of Georgia to suffer this beautiful home to be the dwelling place of bats and owls. Two Richmond and Danville Engines Tied Up for a Few Minutes-The Attorney

Two Richmond and Danville engines were chained up yesterday, but it wasn't for long. The case is a peculiar one.

Yesterday afternoon Deputy United States Marshal McDonald, at the instance of Messrs. Hoke & Burton Smith, went to the yards of the Richmond and Danville, and chained two engines to the tracks. The act was done upon an execution from the United States court. The Messrs. Smith are attorneys for Mr. Shumate, a railway mail clerk, who recently obtained a verdict against the Richmond and Danville for personal in juries. The verdict, it is stated, was obtained some two months ago, and this move yesterday was made to hasten the payment of the amount

"As soom as occasion was had to move the engines for the purpose of attending to the business in which the public are interested, the chains were discovered, the matter reported to the superintendent, and as counsel for the company, knowing this manner of proceeding to be extraordinary and, under the facts, unlawful, I directed the chains to be broken and that the engines should proceed. With the exception of about half an hour, the master of trains was using his engines as if they had never been surprised and captured.

"While it is distasteful for me to appear in print in reference to such an insignificant matter, yet as a sensational article has appeared reflecting upon the Richmond and Danville Railroad Company, which endeavors to promote the interests of the public by careful attention to all business, I cannot retrain from allowing that public to read between the lines and discover the advertising dodges of a firm which owns the newspaper containing that article. The company meets every legal obligation, no matter how unjust it may be considered, prouptly. The United States mashal informs me that it was over his protest that the engines were captured for even the space of about half an hour, as he well knew it was unnecessary even to make a levy on any debt of, or judgment against this company. THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

NEW YORK, January 8.—The stock market today was still strong, but there was a waiting disposition manifested by local operators pending the result of a meeting of railroad presidents in the city. General spinion is that favorable results would be obtained, and the market exhibited considerable strength until it was known that the meeting had adjourned without doing anything of importance, when duliness again marked dealings. Today coal stock and industrials were features of the market. The continuance of the present cold weather and the impression that it will zontinue throughout the season has brought in more zonfident buying, and today Lackawanna rose nearly 4 per cent, others following. Sugar refineries was prominent all day long and strong especially in the forenoon, though there was no news of the kind to favorably effect stock beyond postponement of the Cameron suit. The day began with all conditions favorable, reduction of its rate of discount from 5 to 4 per cent by the Bank of England being one of the most per cent by the Bank of England being one of the most per cent by the Bank of England being one of the most influential opening prices were, therefore, fractionally higher, and with coal stock in the lead further advances were made all along the line in the forenoon. Fluctuations outside of stocks before mentioned, however, were slight, and while a firm tone prevailed there was little vim in the maket, waiting disposition becoming most marked after the announcement of the action of the presidents; when except in a few shares duliness became the ruling feature, and continued so until the close. The trading element was inclined to take advantage of this apathy and hammer stocks, take advantage of this apathy and hammer stocks, their operations resulting in partial loss of early gains. There were strong spots here and there in the list, however, and no material impression was made upon prices. The market finally closed quiet and firm, generally at something better than the opening figures, Sales listed, aggregated 215,000 shares; unlisted, 31,000. Exchange active and strong at 483;6487. NEW YORK, January 8.-London prices were higher this morning, due probably to a rumor from this side predicting that the meeting of the railroad association would result favorably today as well as to the reduc-tion of the Bank of England rate to 4 per cent. The nce was a strong market during the morning hours of the session, and although prices declined fractionally before the close there was no evidence of fractionally before the close there was no evidence of heavy selling. As yet nothing of great importance has been accomplished at the meeting, which adjourned until tomorrow, after appointing a committee to draft by-laws, etc., but the quoted utterances of various gentlemen, who were present, all indicate that the general feeling is one of confidence; that the association will be formed, and that its objects will be accomplished. The public has been so often deceived by associations and plans like the present one that they will not be prone to discount its results in advance, and we are all the more sanguine that these results will ultimately show themselves because they are not being used for effect themselves because they are not being used for effect upon the market now. As the outside public sees the good results, which this association is bound to effect. they will appear in the market as buyers, and the im-provement resulting therefrom will be all the greater provement resulting therefrom will be all the annual all the more lasting. Money continues in plentiful supply with improved demand for bonds.

were received stating that the Bast India crop would not equal last season's yield, and the market slosed steady at a shade under last evening, not with standing estimates of receipts at New Orleans tomorrow of 10,000 bales. In fact, the recent advance has demondized those who believe that a large crop means low prices, and they are disposed to cover and await the effect of the continued large movement on Liverpool. A feature of the day was the constant selling of the leading export house, which has hitherto been heavily long of cotton. Bombay receipts this week are 57,000 bales, against 54,000 bales last year. Interior receipts now point to 58,000 bales hast year. Interior receipts now point to 58,000 bales, against 41,000 bales last year, while the plantation movement is expected to be 188,000 bales, against 117,000 bales last year. while the plantation movement is expected to 185,000 bales, against 117,000 bales last year.

By Private Wire to Youngblood & Haas.

NEW YORK, January 8.—Our market in the main continues to reflect considerable stability. Liverpool was not quite as good as was anticipated, and values here at the opening were somewhat lower than last night. The strength of the southern markets, and a notably better feeling in financial circles, however, restrict the bearish inclination and action of our local operators so that the little outside buying served again to steady prices. We close at a fair recovery. Receipts are only fair. The same, however, do not influence our idea of the crop. As to the general position o cotton we repeat that sales on all good advances are in order.

Haas. CHICAGO, January 8.—With the exception of a lit-tle flurry in oats this has been one of the dull days. Orders were light and fluctuations narrow. The de-mand for grades of wheat suitable for export continues good, and we consider the legitimate situation for cash property favorable to holders of speculative. Traders for May delivery have been somewhat discouraged and the bears, as usual, were very confident, but we think the bears have had their way for a time, and we look Corn was about the same as yesterday-dull and life

Corn was about the same as yesterday—dull and lifeless, with very small variations in prices.

There is quite a feeling among: some speculators in oats that that cereal is liable to sell up to 60c for May.
The trade is so light we think it very hazardous to offer any opinion of the immediate future.
Provisions advanced a little, and advanced slightly on some outside speculative orders, but finally declined and closed about opening figures, which were som what lower than yesterday's close. Can see nothing in the immediate future but a scalping market for the speculative grades.

INSTRUCTION.

SOUTHERN SCHOOL OF SHORT - HAND 18 E. HUNTER ST., ATLANTA, GA.

We have a special teacher for our Typewriting Department. We teach everything necessary to a practical writer. Our pupils read their notes with ease. Our system (Graham's) is the most popular in the United States. We have had from one to three applications daily, for competent stenographers. We have pupils located in all parts of the United States and in Mexico. Demand for shorthand writers in Mexico. Demand for shorthand writers in-reasing continuously. We have the most legant and commodious quarters in the south. Classes day and night. We make no charge or obtaining positions for our pupils. Send or catalogue.

CRICHTON'S Short-hand School

49 Whitehall St., Atlanta. If you want to learn shorthand, the first thing to be done is to select a school; one that has some standing; remembering always, that idle boasts are easily made, but teaching shorthand is an art, a science, a business.

Examine carefully into the claims of teachers and select one as carefully as you would a physician.

Our catalogue will be sent free to any address, and if we do not prove that we are capable of meeting your requirements you have lost nothing

WILL IMPROVE AT ONCE MISS WATSON'S DEATH

Miss Watson was a young lady whose talents and qualities of mind and heart have been summer flower.

Wednesday evening those who had watched untiringly saw that the end was near, and the announcement of her serious illness was a sad blow to those friends who sorrowed so to give her up.

Death came softly and found her ready, and in her last hours she uttered no complaint, but in her last hours she uttered no complaint, but

Miss Watson was the only child of Dr. an Mrs. J. S. Watson. She was born in Coving-ton, Ky., twenty-three years ago, and the family came to this city nine years ago, and Dr. Watson went into the drug business on raraly equaled and never excelled.

A Life Has Gone Out That Was Precious to Many Fond Hearts. THE DIRECTORS OF THE ATLANTA STREET RAILROAD SO DECIDE Miss Maude Watson is dead.

This sad announcement will carry the deepest grief to the many fond hearts to whom her At Their Meeting Yesterday Morning-They Authorize the Work of Improvement life was so precious. In the bloom of youth, in the midst of the and Are Ready to Close Contracts. sunshine of fairest hopes, she has passed from earth to share in the joys of heaven.

The directors of the Atlanta Street Railroad Company met yesterday morning and took a very important step looking to the improve ment of the service of the company. The following were the directors present

Mr. James Swann, of New York; Mr. H. O. Sexias, of New Orleans; Messrs. J. W. Culpepper, Paul Romare, M. Frank, and A. E. Thornton, of Atlanta. This is the full ownership of the company with the exception of Mr. R. W. Inman, who was represented by

The announcement that the company has authorized the construction of electric lines instead of the present system will be received with a great deal of interest by the people of

To a Constitution reporter President A. E. Thornton, of the company, said:
"Now that the company has authorized the change, we will go at once to work, and you may put me down as being responsible for the statement that within the course of a few months—certainly before next summer—a through electric line will be in operation from Ponce de Leon springs to Westview cemetery, giving the rapid transit which has been so eagerly sought for along this line. The work really would have been done before, and we were just ready to close a contract last fall, but the sudden tightening of money matters upset us and caused delay. The company considered the matter fully at this morning's meeting, and I speak by authority when I say that the work of improvement will be begun

"On what line will it be begun?" "I suppose the first work to be done will be the construction of a through line from Ponce de Leon to Westview cemetery, through West End. by way of our Jackson street line and the Broad street line. Then we want to go on with the other work at once, and not stop until every one of our lines are operated by elec-osition to it. The council gave its consent, however, but restricted us by condition ing the consent so that any street car company now in existence, or hereafter to be built, might have the right to use our line, if a double track were laid. Of course we cannot double track the line on this condition, for as it stands now we have the exclusive right to the street, and we do not care to make any change that will vitiate our franchise. We do not care to improve our line for the benefit of other companies, and with such a sweeping invitation we would be forever harassed or blackmailed by new schemes, if we were to lay ourselves hable to it. This restriction was not at all necessary, for by the general law of the state any other company has the right, by a course duly regulated, to condemn any part of another line, if it is necessary. We would not object to taking our chances in this manner, but we do object to voluntarily putting ourselves under such a sweeping restriction and a general invitation to be troubled as pro-

move its restrictions and authorize us to double persits in this condition we will simply have to abandon the idea of making any improvegotiations are now pending, and I hope have the contract closed in a short time."

THE LAST RITES.

The Solemn and Impressive Ceremonies of

Mr. Hornady's Funeral. At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the casket containing all that was mortal of Rev. Paul Hornady was borne to the First Baptist church and reverently placed in front of the high altar, where he was first consecrated to the service of his Maker.

The church was filled with a large number of the service of his Maker.

it has been a favorite for the three last seasons. The Boston Herald said of it:

"At the Howard Atheneum last night, before a large and enthusiastic audience, 'The Ivy Leaf,' a strong romantic Irish comedy drama, was given. The piece has been seen at this theater several times, yet the large audience present last night, and the profusion of applause and laughter which greeted the different situations, show clearly that it is a great ravorite with the patrons of this house. One of the best features of this piece is in the scenic effects which are intensely realistic and met the marked approval of the audience. The scene where a little child is carried off by an eagle over the sea is a splendid piece of staging, and the subsequent rescue of the child by the young hero is really thrilling and exciting. One of the prettiest scenes was in the third act, which represents in the foreground the lakes and hills of kiliarney by moonlight. The company is, with but few changes, the same as before, and the familiarity of the leading members with their respective presents makes the running of the piece smooth. The singing of the 'Ivy Leaf Quarrette' and the playing on the bagpipes were productive of warn applanse."

The church was filled with a large number of sorrowing friends who joined in the last sad Rev. Dr. J. B. Hawthorne, whose hands set the seal of consecration on the ministry of the young preacher, occupied the pulpit, and he was assisted by Rev. Mr. Mitchell, of the Third Baptist, and Rev. Mr. Hillyer, and

The music rendered by the choir was in touching harmony with the sad scene and surrounding circumstances.

Dr. Hawthorne's few words were thoughtfully appropriate, and Dr. Hillyer offered a most impressive prayer.

In concluding the services the choir sang, "Home of the Soul," and as the subdued strains of this grand old hymn floated heavenward, the casket, covered with rarest flowers, was raised tenderly and borne from the church, and the procession took its way to the

The funeral of Mr. Thomas S. Reynolds occurred at the residence, corner of Mitchell and Manguin streets, yesterday.

The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Lewis, of Trinity, assisted by Rev. Dr. John W. Heidt and Rev. John A. Reynolds, presiding older of the district, and were very affecting.

A large number of relatives and friends were present to pay the last honors to one whose course of life made him deserving of all the love and admiration bestowed upon him by his fellows.

The pallbearers were Messrs, Carl Harmsen, G. T. Dodd, T. P. Westmoreland, W. E. Treadwell, V. P. Sisson and C. W. Motes.

The remains were laid to rest in Oakland.

As a musician she possessed talents of such a high order that her skill was often brought into requisition, and her reputation as a teacher was surpassed by none in the city.

But it was in her beautiful daily Christian life and character that those splendid virtues, that won for her the love and admiration of all who knew her, shone brightest.

An earnest and devoted member of Trinity congregation, she took a leading part in Sunday school work, was most active in mission and charitable work of all kinds. Her last work was a labor of love in Trinity mission Christmas eve, and from that blessed field of duty she went home to die.

She was stricken with pneumonia Christmas Day, and for three weeks the most skilled physicians and devoted nurses have been beside her, battling with the dread disease, and comforting and administering to the sweet sufferer, whose life was fading slowly as fades a summer flower. new year began.

In view of the meeting being an unusual one with the club, the members have arranged an unusually interesting programme.

The essay of the evening will be on Robert Browning, by Miss Leonora Beck, who will be followed by five members of the club, giving quotations of several pages each.

Miss Irene Farrar will read a sketch of the lives of Joel Chandler Harris and Wallace P.

Miss Pauline Romare will read a selection from "A Trouble on Lost Mountain," by Joel Chandler Harris. Miss Lula Snook is on the programme for a in her last hours she uttered no complaint, but died as she had lived, trusting in Him who doeth all things well.

A strange coincidence was the fact that at 11:30 o'clock, the hour of her death, just one year ago to the hour, she visited Mr. Licklider to offer her condolence when the angel of death had closed the eyes of his beloved wife. Yesterday he, in turn, at the same hour, entered the saddened home only to offer, in return, his sympathies to the distressed family. Miss Watson was the only child of Dr. and selections. The solos by Mr. Oscar Pappenheime with the violincello, will be a special attrac-

Tiddledy Winks at John M. Miller's book store,31 Marietta street. We Wish You a Happy, Happy New Year

January, 1891! How the years roll by! April 8, 1886, we launched our name before the Atlanta public with the announcement that our stock was the largest in the city, our prices lower, our system more complete. We further announced that anything and everything usually kept in a first-class grocery stock could be found at our store. Since that time we have added all new desirable articles of diet that have come to notice. We are safe in saying that we have enjoyed, during these four years, the largest retail trade of any grocery house in the south, who dealt exclusively in groceries. Our recent Christmas trade was phenon enal. It exceeded our most sanguine expecta-tions. Goods rolled out fast, and money with equal swiftness filled our coffers. So much with equal swittness filed our coffers. So much for the past years, now for 1891. Do you want bargains? Do you want first-class groceries? If so, you can get both at our store. We are still offering the finest, best quality of Jersey butter, worth 50 cents per pound, for 35 cents. Why pay 50 cents for a Jersey butter just because some name is printed across the top? This said there's nothing in a name. In this instance it is a loss of about 15 cents on every pound of butter used. Now, my friends, come to our store, test our butter, and if it does not prove satisfactory do not buy it. We positively guarantee it to be the equal of any butter in the market sold for 50 cents per pound. Then again, we say to some of you, and with perfect deference, that you do not know what a fine quality tea is until you have used our own blend Talo Tea. It is absolutely without a match—an equal in all Atlanta. Do not be skepficial now, but send and try one-fourth of a pound. We state most emphatically it will pay you to do so, and if we made a practice of laying wagers, we would stake our—reputation that the quality would elicit comment from every one partaking of it, whether at private residence or boarding house. Oh! the stuff that is sold for tea at some of our stores! They cannot help it, though; they are not judges, and it was sold by some gentlemanly "knight of the grip," who recommended it as the bost. for the past years, now for 1891. Do you want

Atlanta will have a canning factory. The Fulton County Farmers' Alliance has taken hold of the matter, and this means that the project will be pushed forward for all it is

At the last meeting of the County Alliance a resolution was adopted appointing a committee, of which Mr. A. S. Smith, a leading truck grower, was elected chairman, to discus the question of establishing a factory in At-

This committee has invited the capitalists of the city to meet with it in Mr. C. J. Kicklighter's office, No. 87 South Broad street, at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

The object of this meeting is to thoroughly discuss the question with the men of means who are seeking safe investments for their capital, furnish the products on the other.

Already Negotiating.

Since the organization of the committee sev eral propositions have been made, tendering sites for the buildings connected with the factory. All these propositions will receive due consideration by the committee, and by those who may become members of a stock company to run the factory.

On Saturday following the committee will meet the truck growers of Fulton county and discuss with them the other side of the question, so at all available information car be gathered before the work of locating and erecting the factory is begun.

Facts and Figures. "Of what capacity will your factory be,"

Mr. Smith was asked. "Well, we have not decided that question yet You see the first thing we have got to do is to find out the safest and most desirable capacity, and base our calculations on that.

"We are going to have present at our meeting the leading merchants who handle canned goods, and get from them such data as can be had regarding the supply and demand of the city.

"My idea is to begin with tomatoes, beans, peas and the like of that; things that are wasted by wagon loads in the country now, because there is no way to use the surplus crop after the market becomes glutted with the green produce of the farm and garden.

"I operate a large truck farm near the city. In 1889, the great fruit year, I sent out notice to everybody to come and help themselves to peaches, because they were rotting by bushels after they had become so plentiful as to be almost unsalable. Then every year I have bushels and bushels of tomatoes that lie rotting on the ground for the same reason.

"Now, peaches do not come plentiful every year, and to start on that fruit would not be advisable; still, let the factory prepared to use them during the fruit years when they are plentiful; when peaches are canned the parings can be manufactured into jellies and a great saving made.'

$100,000 Capital. "About what will be your capital?" "My idea is to start with not less than $100. 000 capital, which will put the business on a splendid footing at once. With plenty of funds to back it, a location like Atlanta from where railroads radiate in evey direction, and one of the finest truck and fruit-growing sections of the south to back it, I believe that a canning factory would coin money.

"Not only would it prove profitable in this vay, but it would give to the farmers a ready and remunerative market for all the fruits and vegetables they could raise, such a large percentage of which is now a dead loss. Again, it would give the merchants and their customers fresh, sweet, clean goods at prices as cheap as they could get them anywhere, less the cost of handling and transporta-

"Not only could the products of this county, which are amply sufficient to supply the city, be utilized, but if there was any scarcity in the supply the country for miles around, on the lines of railroad, could be drawn upon."

Wait a Little While.

Wait a Little While.

Yes, take your time, for it is better late than never, and if you will not at once try the proper remedy to restore your health wait until your doctor says you can't live and then try it. Doctors make a mistake quite often and doctor symptoms instead of diseases. A patient complains of mysterious aches and pains, sleeplessness, gloomy forebodings, nervous disquietude, etc. He is given a liniment for his aches, a parcotic for his sleeplessness, whisky to make a narcotic for his sleeplessuess, whisky to make him cheerful, and nux vomica or other poison to quiet his nerves. Verily, the last condition of that man is worse than the first. How many fall into the whisky or opium habit and remain confirmed invalids until death brings relief. You don't need such stuff. You need an alterative. You need a remedy that will an alterative. You need a remedy that will an alterative. You need a remedy that will merely assist nature in regaining her equilibrium. You need a remedy that will assist and strengthen the natural functions of the body. You need a remedy that will assist the digestion and assimilation of food you eat, a remedy that is easy and kind to the stomach, kidneys and liver. Such a remedy is Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla. Try it and you will then get well in spite of doctors and erroneons treatment.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine, saying he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This indisputable evidence of the great merit of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has given me unbounded conf dence in the preparation, and I recommend it to my customers, knowing it cannot disap-"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of a bad

The remedies ordinarily used in such cases failed to give me relief. Almost in despair of ever finding me relief. Almost in despair of ever inding anything to cure me, I bought a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was helped from the first dose. I had not finished one bottle before the disease left me, and my throat and lungs were as sound as ever."—Geo. B. Hunter, Altoona, Pa.
